

LOUISIANA
PORTS
WORKING TOGETHER

IMPORTANT

PORT OF GREATER BATON ROUGE

WE KNOW THE IMPORTANCE of the maritime industry to the economic well-being of our state. This includes the five deep-draft ports on the Mississippi River that can accommodate large, ocean-going ships - the ports of Greater Baton Rouge, South Louisiana, New Orleans, St. Bernard, and Plaquemines.

When the total tonnage of cargo shipped from these five ports is combined, it qualifies the area from Baton Rouge to the mouth of the Mississippi River as one of the largest port complexes in the world.

To become more competitive with other ports in the U.S. and globally - and to attract more of the infrastructure money coming from Washington, D.C., it's important for the five ports to work together.

That important work has already begun, with cooperation among Louisiana legislative leaders, port directors, and port staffs.

It's been said, "A rising tide lifts all ships." At the Port of Greater Baton Rouge, we look forward to the opportunity to lift all of Louisiana through increased economic developments made possible by this spirit of cooperation among our deep-draft ports.

THE FIVE DEEP-DRAFT PORTS OF SOUTH LOUISIANA ON THE MISSISSIPPI RIVER:

- Port of Greater Baton Rouge
- Port of South Louisiana
- Port of New Orleans
- St. Bernard Port, Harbor and Terminal District
- Plaquemines Port, Harbor and Terminal District

WWW.PORTGBR.COM